1. Preheat oven to 300°
2. Remove any plastic wrap under lid (designed to hold liquid in pan).
3. Place aluminum pan in oven, leaving the lid on to prevent dryness. Begin heating at least 1-1/2 hours before your serving time. Small amounts of meat require less heating time than large amounts.
4. Heat the precooked meats to 130° - 140°, which feels very warm to the touch. Spoon the gravies over the meat every 15-20 minutes to insure even-heating.
5. If you heat too soon, leave the pans in the oven cavity and turn the oven to "Warm".
6. Enjoy!

Keep Product Refrigerated or Frozen (If frozen, thaw before heating).
